Messieurs Fowles,

Please to Insert the following in your next Gazette, wherein you'l oblige, (no Doubt) a Number of your Readers, and in particular, Your's, B. I.

THE late Establishment of a Popish Missionary in Nova-Scotia, is one of the most daring Violations of Law, and Attacks upon the PROTESTANT RELIGION, which have disgraced the Annals of the present Reign. This Priest has a Salary of £.100 Sterling, per Annum, out of his Majesty's Exchequer; and receives great Countenance and Encouragement from the Governor of that Colony (in Compliance, no Doubt with Ministerial Instructions) but in direct Defiance of an Express Law, confirmed by his Majesty in Council; which makes it a high Misdemeanor for any Person to harbour, entertain or encourage a Popish Priest, and subjects the Offender to an heavy Fine; which also forbids all Orders of Clergymen, of the Church of Rome, to exercise their Functions within that Jurisdiction, under a very severe Penalty.

By the Influence of this Priest, thus supported and encouraged, the several Tribes of Indians within that Province, are become more firmly attached to the Romish Religion, than ever, and might no doubt, be easily engaged in the French Interest, if there should be any Occasion for their Services in a future War.

The surprising Progress which he has already made, and the vast ascendant which he has obtained over them, may appear from the following Account, received from a Gentleman of undoubted Veracity, in those Parts, viz.

"There are divers Parts of the Province, where "the several Tribes of Indians rendezvous, and "there the Holy Father meets them at set Times, "receives their Confessions, and grants Absolutions: and on one of these occasions last Summer, "the Indians brought in beaver, and other Furrs, "to the Amount of at least Five Hundred DOLLARS, to satisfy for the Sins of the Year past, "and obtain Absolution. By Reason of this annual Expence, the Indians are deprived of the "Means, whereby they used to procure the Necessaries of Life, and many of them are reduced "to beg their Subsistence in the Winter, of the "English Inhabitants.

By this wicked Craft, the Priest gets his Wealth, and on him the Wealth of our Nation must be lavished, contrary to the Freedom, Safety and Happiness of this much exposed Colony, to the Interests of the Protestant Religion, and the Laws and Constitution of a British Government!

Messieurs EDES & GILL,

HAVING obtain'd a Copy of a Letter from Halifax, if you think it worth publishing, as it gives a State of the Holy Roman Catholick Religion in that Province, by publishing of it you will oblige some of your Readers, and among the Rest,

Your humble Servant, T. W.

Halifax, Nova-Scotia, 25th, 1770.

MY DEAR JERE O SULLIVAN,

I AM very sorry you left this Place, for since ye have been gone, we have a Romish Priest do you see Jere; this was a good Stroke of Policy of some of our good Friends, (for I assure you we are not without many of them) to get a Priest for our good Friends the St. John's Indians, they being of our Holy Religion, for he can do for them and us too; after he has been with them, and confes'd them, and given them Absolution, and done what is necessary for the good of their Souls, Then he comes to Halifax, and we have Mass, Prayers, Ave Maries, & Plenty of Holy Water; & Abundance of other good Things belonging to the Holy Mother Church, and we can get Absolution very cheap; and as I know you cannot come here for fear of the Jail, as you owe Money in this Place, if you will send me a little Money I will go to the Priest and buy a Pardon for you doe you see, for all your Sins big and little, and send it to you. and then sure you will be very happy, when your poor Soul is safe, for you have been a great Sinner as well as myself. Therefore my Dear Jere, do not neglect my good Advice. It is true that I am told there is a Law of this Province that any Romish Priest being found officiating within this Province shall be hanged, but no Matter for that doe ye see, for we have a great many well-wishers here, and our Priest goes about the Town as publickly as any of the Ministers of the Town, and I hope we will have a Chappel here soon, for it looks very favourable on our Side, when we can meet Time after Time in the Town, and have the Enjoyment of Religion, which we could not doe when you was here; for we now meet in Charley C——k's Big House, and our Countrymen of our Religion, with the Newtoral French, and some few Dutch Roman Catholicks, make a considerable Number, and we increase, for some of ours who for want of a Priest have gone to the English Church, are joining us again, for the Priest has been here about a Month, and we are very much pleas'd with the Enjoyment of our Holy Religion, for it's a good Thing to get Absolution, for I feel much the better for it; and let me tell you, I never was so happy in my Life as I am now. I could tell you a great deal more if I could see you, but as we are so far a-part, I must bid you adieu. I am, your loving Cousin,

The following is inserted as a curious Specimen of the literary Abilities of the D—— of C——d, being one of the Letters his Royal Highness wrote during his late Amour with Lady Grosvenor.

From the London Morning Chronicle, July 5.

MY Dear little Angel, I wrote my last Letter to you yesterday at 12 o'clock just when we sailed I dined at two o'clock and as for the afternoon I had some music I have my own servant on board that plays and a couple of Hands from London for the six weeks I am out—we were a good many at Dinner I had about 9 people Yesterday and shall have more when the rest of my Squadron join me they stand with me till near seven—I got to supper about 9 o'clock but I could not Eat, and so got to bed about 10—I then prayed for you my dearest love kissed your dearest little Hair and laye down and dreamt of you had you on the dear little couch ten thousand times in my arms kissing you and telling you how much I loved and adore you and you seemed pleased but alass when I woke I found it all dillusion nobody by me but myself at Sea I rose by time at half past five and went upon Deck there I found my friend Billy and walked with him for about an hour till Barrington came to me we then breakfasted about 8 o'clock and by nine I began and exercised the Ships under my command till twelve it is now one and when I finished this letter to you my dear Love I shall dress and go to dinner at two o'clock it is a rule on board to dine at two, breakfast at eight and sup at nine—always if nothing hinders me I shall be a bed at ten or soon after and up by half past 5 in the morning in order to have if there is any occasion orders ready for the Fleet under my command before I began to exercise them—I am sure the account of this days duty can be no pleasure to you my love yet it is exactly what I have done and as I promise you always to let you know my motions and my thoughts I have now performed my promise this day to you and always will until the very last letter you shall have from me which will be when I between five and six weeks hence send the Admiralty word that I am arrived at Spithead then I shall only wait just for their answer which will be with me in a few hours to strike my flag and then I shall return to you that instant O' my love mad and happy beyond myself to tell you how I love you and have thought of you ever since I have been seperated from you the wind being contrary to day about one I put off dinner till three o'clock in order to anchor Ships for this Night in Portland Road just off Weymouth about 2 Miles I hope to sail to-morrow by 5 in the morning I hope you are well I am sure I need not tell you I have had nothing in my thoughts but your dear self and long for the time to come back again to you I will all the while take care of myself be-

BOSTON, November 19.

In reply to the Message of the House of Representatives, inserted in our last, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor was pleased to send the following Message, viz.

Gentlemen of the House of Representatives,

IN your Message to me of the 6th instant you have declared yourselves of opinion that the words in General Court assembled are not meerly words of form in our Laws, but of substance and necessary to the validity of every Act.

If your opinion had been well founded I should have thought it surprizing as well as unfortunate, that such a discovery should, during thirty years together, have escaped the Members of the several General Assemblies, all the Gentlemen of the Law concerned in our executive Courts, and all the Inhabitants of the Province in general. But it appears to me that there is not the least foundation for your opinion. The stile of a Law which expresses the Governor, Council and House of Representatives, expresses that authority which, by Charter, hath power to make Laws, and the same reason which you urge, for adding the words in General Court assembled, will hold as well for further adding—by the King's Writ—under the Province Seal—signed by the Governor—issued thirty Days before the convening, together with all the other requisites for forming a constitutional General Court; for in all these cases, if the facts do not appear upon the Roll, it may be as necessary to make use of dehors evidence as in the case when the words in General Court assembled are not inserted; but I am of opinion this sort of evidence never was and probably never will be necessary in either case.

You will not be able to support your assertion that Acts of Parliament universally contain this express averment that they were passed by the several branches in Parliament assembled.

Many ancient Statutes without this clause are equally in force with modern Statutes which have the clause, and modern Acts of this Province without the clause you contend for, are equally in force with ancient Acts which have that clause.

I am not acquainted with the special Reason which induced his Majesty to restrain the Governor from consenting to an Act with this clause in it. Perhaps it was meerly because it is unnecessary and redundant. Be it as it may, I cannot depart from my Instruction nor make my humble application that it may be withdrawn, unless I could see that it is an abridgment of your rights or tended to subject the Province to inconvenience.

I cannot help, as you have given me occasion for it, putting you in mind that you are now in the seventh week of the session and that scarce any of the public business is yet compleated. I doubt not the House, in general, wish to return to their private affairs, and I have reason to think your constituents in all parts of the Province wish to see all obstructions to your giving greater dispatch removed. I must therefore repeat my recommendation to you that in concurrence with the Council, who I am very sure are disposed to do their part, you will prepare the Business now before the Court to be laid before me, that the session may be brought to an end as soon as possible.

Cambridge, 8th November, 1770. T. HUTCHINSON.

When this Message was read in the House, the Bills that had been carried up to the Council Board, were sent for down, and the Words excepted to were struck out; But that this was done by the House not from any Conviction afforded to them in his Honor's Message, but only because a very material Part of the Business would have necessarily been stop'd at the Chair, fully appears by the Appointment of a Committee of the House immediately to prepare an Answer to the Message; which was bro't in and agreed to on Thursday last, and on Saturday was presented to his Honor as follows, viz.

May it please your Honor,

WE have maturely consider'd your Message to this House of the 8th Instant; and we cannot but observe with great concern, that by virtue of Instructions to the King's Governor of the province, we are reduc'd to the necessity of passing laws in such form as to render them in our opinion ineffectual. The words, in General Court assembled, we still consider to be so substantial, that we are as much surpriz'd as your Honor suggests you should be if you apprehended our opinion was well founded, that such a discovery should, during thirty years together, have escaped the members of the several General Assemblies, &c.

Your Honor is pleas'd to say, "it appears to you, there is not the least foundation for our opinion"; and in another place, that "you are of opinion that this sort of evidence never was and probably never will be necessary in either case": How far these opinions, thus precisely given, considering your Honor's high rank in the law, ought to be an authority to us, must be left to the world to judge; but if that authority should not be deem'd of weight enough absolutely to decide the question, this House is of opinion, that the decision of impartial judges, will not be in favor of the sufficiency of of the late stile used in enacting our laws.

The House think it surprizing and unfortunate that your Honor should assert, that "the stile of a law which expresses the Governor, Council and House of Representatives, expresses that authority which by Charter hath power to make laws". In order to show whether this assertion is true or not, we beg leave to adduce the words of the Charter. They are these, viz. "We will and by "these presents for us our heirs and successors do ordain "and grant, that there shall and may be convened held "and kept by the Governor for the time being, upon "every last Wednesday in the month of May every year "for ever, and at all such other times as the Governor "of our said province shall think fit and appoint, a Great "and General Court or Assembly; which said Great and "General Court or Assembly shall consist of the Governor "and Council or Assistants for the time being, and of "such Freeholders of our said province or territory, as "shall be from time to time elected or deputed by the "major part of the Freeholders and other inhabitants "of the respective towns or places who shall be present "at such Elections, &c.;—to which Great and General "Court or Assembly to be held as aforesaid, We do hereby for us our heirs, &c. give and grant full power and "authority from time to time to direct, appoint and declare, &c." And afterwards we find the same Great and General Court or Assembly empowered in the following words, viz. "And we do of our further grace, "&c. grant, establish and ordain, for us our heirs and "successors, that the Great and General Court or Assembly of our said province or territory, being convened "as aforesaid, shall for ever have full power and authority, to erect and constitute judicatures and courts of "records or other courts", &c. And afterwards the Governor & the Great & General Court or Assembly are empowered in the following words, viz. "And we do further for us, our heirs and successors, give and grant to "the said Governor and the Great and General Court or "Assembly of our said province or territory for the time "being, full power and authority from time to time, to "make, ordain and establish all manner of wholsome "and reasonable orders, laws, statutes & ordinances," &c.

From whence it is certain and obvious, that the stile of a law which expresses the Governor, Council and House of Representatives, does not express that authority, which by Charter hath power to make laws; because the Governor, Council and House of Representatives, have no authority to make laws by Charter, unless they are convened and held in General Court or Assembly. And we may venture to submit to your own Consideration, whether an act of the Governor, Council and House of Representatives would be valid, which should be passed by each of those branches not in General Court assembled? Should a Bill pass this House and be sent up to the Board in the present session, and after a prorogation of the General Court be concurred by the Council and consented to by the Governor, can there be the least foundation for an opinion that such Bill could become a Law?

The House is astonish'd to hear your Honor say, that "the same reason which we urge for adding the words, in General Court assembled, will hold as well for further adding, by the King's Writ—under the province seal—signed by the Governor—issued thirty days before the convening—together with all the other requisites for forming a constitutional General Court: Because, altho' the words, Governor, Council and House of Representatives only, imply, the King's Writ, under the province seal, sign'd by the Governor and issued thirty days before the convening, yet it does not imply all the other requisites for forming a constitutional General Court; whereas, the Governor, Council and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, necessarily imply all these and every other requisite; and therefore, these appearing on the record, there can be no necessity of recurring to so great an absurdity as evidence dehors, in support of a record of the highest nature.—You have not deny'd, that it is a known and approved maxim of the law, that every record must prove itself without any dehors evidence; nor that an act of parliament or law of this province is not a record of the highest nature: Yet you have given it as your opinion, that dehors evidence never was and probably never will be necessary in either case; which seems to imply that if in any case it should be necessary, it may be admitted, or else that every thing which is necessary, does appear upon the face of a law without these words in General Court assembled, notwithstanding the constant practice of parliament for more than five Centuries has been, to use equivlaent words, which must upon your principles be perfectly unnecessary, redundant and nugatory.

Your Honor is pleased to say, we shall not be able to support our assertion, "that acts of parliament universally contain the express averment that they are pass'd by the several branches in parliament assembled"; and that "many ancient statutes without this clause, are equally in force with modern statutes which have the clause". How far our assertion can or cannot be supported, we appeal to the statutes at large to determine: And we may venture to advance, that from the time of king Edward the first, under whose reign the present form of the legislature took place, and the two houses of parliament were separated from each other, which is now five hundred years, to this day, there is scarcely a single statute without such an express averment. And indeed, other expressions equivalent to such an averment, are used in almost all the statutes that are more ancient than the reign of Edward the first. For example, in the statute of Merton, which was in the twentieth year of king Henry the third, A. D. 1235, we find this averment, "It was provided in the court of our Lord the King, holden at Merton, on Wednesday, &c. the 20th year of the reign of king Henry, &c. before William Arch-Bishop of Canterbury, and others his Bishops and Suffragans, and before the greater part of the Earls and Barons of England there being assembled, for the coronation of the said King and Hellianor the Queen, about which they were called, when it was treated for the commonwealth of the realm upon the articles under-written; thus it was provided and granted, as well of the aforesaid Arch-Bishop, Bishops, Earls and Barons, as of the king himself and others." And in the statute of Marlbridge, which was in the 52d year of king Henry the third, A.D. 1267, the averment is in these words, "The said King our Lord, providing for the better estate of his realm of England, and for the more speedy ministration of justice, as belongeth to the office of a King, the more discrete men of the realm being called together, as well of the higher as of the lower estate, it was provided, agreed and ordained," &c.

It is true that Magna Charta and Charta de Foresta, which have not such an express averment, are sometimes called statutes; but these are not only the most ancient monuments which are ever called statutes, and were made before any division of the Lords from the Commons; but they were originally intended to be Charters, and were accordingly drawn in the form of Charters, and executed under the seals of the Princes who gave them, and are considered, pleaded and judged on, as we believe are all others which have not such an express averment, as parts of the common law, rather than as acts of parliament. So that we are still of opinion, that there is no statute now in force, that is pleadable as an act of parliament, which has not in it such an averment. Many ancient institutions are still in force as rules of common law, which are not pleadable as acts of parliament.——When your Honor says, that modern acts of this province without the clause we contend for, are equally in force with ancient acts which have that clause, it is a manifest petition of the principle disputed between your Honor and the House, which the House can by no means allow.

You are pleased to inform us, that "you are not acquainted with the special reason which induced his Majesty to restrain the governor from consenting to an act with this clause in it;" Where then is the freedom of the governor of the province, if he is to govern twenty-eight years together, by positive instructions from other persons at three thousand miles distance, without being able in all that time to discover any reasons for them!—— The reasons which induced his Majesty's ministers to dictate this instruction, and which induce governors to be so fond of them, we fear are very different from those suggested by your Honor; If the words are unnecessary and redundant, why does his Majesty consent to them in so many instances, every session of parliament? The true reason we fear is, to reduce this province to the footing of little corporations in England, and by degrees to pare away, not only the appearance, but the substance of all authority in the Great and General Court of the Province.

Upon the whole, it gives us great and just concern to find your Honor, not only determined so scrupulously to adhere even to the letter of this instruction, but declaring in your message, your present resolution not to make your humble application to his Majesty to withdraw it; so that the General Assembly is reduced to the hard alternative, either to forbear attempting to make any laws at all, however urgent the exigencies of the province may be, or to pass them in such an inartificial and barbarous style, that they may hereafter be drawn into question as insufficient, invalid and void. For what reasonable assurance can we have, that some future corrupt administration, to effect some despotic measure, and to injure and destroy this province, may not move this exception to a multitude of our laws, that they are enacted in such a style, as that from the face of them, compared with the Charter, they appear to be invalid and void; and instruct the governor not to consent to any law to cure such defect and imperfection. Should such an exception be taken advantage of, by pleadings in our courts of law, how could even independent judges adjudge such laws not conformable to the charter, to be valid? And if independent judges could not, what is to be expected from judges, whose commissions shall be during pleasure, when they shall know it to be the desire of administration here and at home, that such acts should be adjudged void.

Your Honor has taken occasion to put us in mind, in your message, that we were in the seventh week of the session, and that scarce any of the public business was then compleated: Of this we are very sensible, and have long wished to return to our private affairs. Had your Honor considered that the General Assembly has been for these two years past so interrupted by the Chair, either by dissolutions or long prorogations, that they have had little or no time to advert to the internal concerns of the province, & it are on that account greatly in arrears, perhaps you would have spared this observation. We are, however, accountable to none but our constituents, for the time we spend in doing the part of the public business, which they have chosen us to transact: The great inconvenience of our sitting in this place, hath been the principal reason why the business has been so much retarded: The difficulty would have been in some degree less, if your Honor had been pleased to have taken your residence where you had ordered the General Assembly to be held and kept. If your Honor is to judge, and not the Council and the House, with how much deliberation the importance of every case relative to the general interest of the people ought to be consulted, we pray your Honor to consider of what importance your promise was to both houses, in your speech of the 25th of July last, that you would patiently wait the result of their debates, and give them no interruption therein.——We doubt not but our constituents wish, as we do, to see all obstructions to our giving greater dispatch removed for the future: and we believe they are all sensible that this in a great measure depends upon your Honor: We therefore repeat our earnest request, that you would be pleased to order the next session of this assembly to be held at its ancient and established place, the Town-House in Boston, where the remaining part of the business of this year, may be compleated with much greater dispatch, and to better effect. WE are told the approaching War will change the intended Operations reſpecting the Colonies—Thus War itſelf may be productive of the happieſt kind of Peace.

The exact number of the Turkiſh fleet deſtroyed by the Ruſſians in the late deciſive engagement off Scio, is as follows, viz. ſix Ships from 80 to 90 guns. Seven from 60 to 70 guns, Four frigates, and a great number of Chebecks, Galliez, &c.

Yeſterday the preſs for ſeamen continued very hot on the river Thames, when all ſhips that came in were ſtript of their hands, except the captains, mates and pilots. Some men belonging to the preſs gangs were put on board the veſſels to bring them to their moorings. In ſeveral parts about London numbers were preſſed.

A gentleman who arrived in town on Thurſday night from Southampton, met that morning a body of ſailors conſiſting of about 50; ſoon after he met another party of upwards of 70, all of them with large ſticks, &c. in their hands. The gentleman enquired the reaſon of their marching in that manner, they replied that they had walked all night from London to avoid being preſſed, and that they were going to Southampton and other places to ſeek for bread. The gentleman gave them ſome money to buy drink upon which they gave him three cheers, and continued their route. It is conjectured they are a part of thoſe impreſſed men who eſcaped from on board the tender laſt Wedneſday evening.

By advices in twenty ſix days from Boſton we learn, that ſeveral of the Judges there had offered to reſign, but the Lieutenant Governor had refuſed to accept of their reſignations, and ordered all of them to attend on the day on which Capt. Preſton's trial was to come on.

The following is an authentic copy of a letter ſent on Monday night from the Admiralty to the maſter of Lloyd's coffee-houſe, Lombard-ſtreet:

"The Favourite ſloop of war being arrived off the Mother-Bank from Falkland Iſland, brings an account, that a Spaniſh man of war and five frigates, with artillery and land forces on board, had diſpoſſeſſed his Majeſty of the ſettlement of Port Egmont. I am commanded by the Lords Commiſſioners of the Admiralty to give you this information, that the merchants, and others who are any ways intereſted therein, may be fully acquainted therewith." Signed ——.

Admiralty-Office, Sept. 24. 1770.

The following is an exact account of the Sips, force, and number of men, ſent by the Spaniards from Buenos-Ayres to take poſſeſſion of Falkland Iſland:

Frigates	Guns	Seamen	Soldiers
1	30	190	100
3	28	803	340
1	20	110	84
		1103	524

Advice has been again received, that there are ten Spaniſh ſail of the line, with between 3 and 4000 troops, hovering about Jamaica, and the Leeward Iſlands. Intelligence of this, we are aſſured, was tranſmitted alſo near three months ſince by Commodore Foreſt, a few days before his death.

Yeſterday morning early an extraordinary packet ſailed with inſtructions to the Governor of Jamaica.

We are aſſured that ſix ſhips of the line are ordered to be immediately completed for ſervice, before any other of the preſent armament.

It may be depended on, that the above ſix ſhips are to proceed, as ſoon as ever they are fitted out, to the river Tagus, to demand ſatisfaction of the Court of Portugal for the impriſonment & ill uſage of Mr. Connel, the Engliſh merchant at Liſbon.

We are aſſured that it is demanded, if the Court of Portugal does not give immediate and ample ſatisfaction for the inſult offered to Great Britain, in their illegal and oppreſſive uſage of our Engliſh Leader, war will be directly declared againſt her.

The late behaviour of the Portugueſe to our Factory at Liſbon has long been complained of, but without much notice having been given to it by the M——y; but this laſt inſtance was ſo very flagrant, that it could not be paſſed over with any degree of honour or propriety.

Sept. 29. All the letters received by our merchants from Madrid, by the laſt packet, mention a report, which prevailed there, of an intended ruptu e with England; and that they every hour expected a declaration of war to be made there.

Some intelligent people imagine, that the French have no real deſigns in the Mediterranean, but that they will attempt to draw great part of our force there, and then attack our poſſeſſions in the Atlantic.

Advice is received that the inhabitants of the Morea, on hearing of the total defeat of the Ottoman fleet, had taken arms, and maſſacred, in their turn, all the Turks who fell into their hands.

By the ſame channel we learn, that the Greeks of Lividia and Theſſaly had revolted againſt the Turks, and that the Ruſſian flag was flying on many iſlands of the Archipelago.

It is ſaid 31 ſail of the line and 6 frigates are lately put in commiſſion, under the command of Admiral Geary, Lord Edgcumbe, and Commodore Hill.

No leſs than 2000 men have lately been entered at Portſmouth rendezvous, by lieutenant Lyſcough and they ſtill keep entering as faſt as 3 perſons can write their names.

Preſs warrants are ſigned by the lord mayor for impreſſing men within the city.

Monday 20 per cent was given to inſure veſſels from the leeward iſlands, but to return 15 in caſe of no war before their arrival.

BOSTON, November 19.

AT the Superior Court held at Salem the Week before laſt a Mulatto Man was indicted for tarring and feathering one Jeſſe Savil, and otherwiſe evil entreating him, and being thereof convicted by the Verdict of the Jury, he was ſentenced by the Court to be ſet on the Gallows, for the Space of one Hour, to be whipped Forty Stripes ſave one, under the Gallows, to ſuffer two Years Impriſonment, and at the Expiration thereof to give Security for his good Behavior for the Term of Seven Years in the Sum of £ 100 with two Sureties in £ 50 each, and to pay Coſts of Proſecution.

About a twelvemonth ago, one —— Fellows belonging to an arm'd Cutter in Cape Ann, was tryed before the ſame Court for aſſaulting a Deputy Sheriff then in the Execution of his Office, firing a Muſquet upon him loaded with Ball, and thereby greatly endangering his Life, and finally with armis reſcuing a Priſoner from ſaid Sheriff; and being convicted, was ſentenced to pay a Fine of Ten Pounds and Coſts—One half of which Fine was afterwards remitted by his Honor the Lt. Governor —We ſhall make no Comment, for there needs none.

Extract of a Letter from London, Sept. 19.

"The Nations of Europe are on the eve of a general Rupture. By the daily accounts, England and Spain will ſoon commence hoſtilities. Laſt night was a very great preſs for ſeamen. Powerful armaments are fitting out by ſea—the land forces retuiling. Frequent councils and conſultations between the King, Miniſters & ambaſſadors of foreign Courts. Expreſſes going to and from all quarters; in ſhort every thing bears the aſpect of War.

How a war with Spain will affect the Colonies, I cannot tell; but 'tis generally thought here a change of Miniſters will by that means be brought about in favor of the popular party. Should that take place, a union muſt enſue.

The affair of March 5th, and removal of the Court to Cambridge, are much talked of here.

"The Orders from New-York have greatly weakened the terror of that Union ſo dreaded by Adminiſtration.

"'Tis conjectured by ſome that about the time of Capt. Preſton's trial, Boſton will again be inveſted by a fleet and army; and ſhould he be condemned, a pardon from his Majeſty will be ready to take him off before a new indictment can be bro't againſt him.

Capt. Hall, on his Paſſage hither, was chaſed by a Ship of Force, who fired ſeveral Shot at him.

Capts. Brown and Symmes had put up for this Port, and Capt. Dixey was to ſail in about 10 Days after him.

We hear that Benjamin Hallowell, jun. Eſq; of this Town, is appointed one of the Commiſſioners of his Majeſty's Cuſtoms in America; George Meſerve, Eſq; Comptroller for this Port, to be Collector for the Port of Piſcataqua; and Robert Hallowell, Eſq; Deputy Collector at Piſcataqua, to be Comptroller for the Port of Boſton.

A Letter from Portſmouth, New-Hampſhire, dated laſt Friday, ſays, "Capt. William McLennan, who arrived at Caſco-Bay laſt Tueſday, informs, That in Lat. 32. Long. 69, on the 3d of November, he ſpoke with Capt. Stevenſon, in a Brig bound from Falmouth to Cape-Fear, out 28 Days, who told him that when he left England, WAR was expected to be declared every Day againſt France, Spain & Portugal, and did not doubt, but in a few Days after he left that Port it took place:—He further informs, that on his Paſſage, he was chaſed a whole Day by a Portugueſe Man of War, but luckily got clear.—Many wiſh here that this may be prove true, as no doubt it would make Buſineſs briſker, Caſh plentier, and perhaps put an end to our Diſputes both in England & America."

A Gentleman arrived at New-York, via Philadelphia, from Jamaica, informs, That the Plague was broke out in the Iſland of Hiſpaniola.

ause you desire my dear little Friend does the Angel of my heart pray do you take care of your dearself for the sake of your faithful servant who lives but to love you to adore you and to bless the moment that has made you generous enough to own it to him I hope my dear nay I will dare to say you never will have reason to repent it, the Wind was not so contrary but we could have sailed In but I told Barrington that as it was not fair I would anchor especially as I could send one of my Frigates in for that I had dispatches of consequence to send to London indeed my dear Angel I need not tell you I know you read the reason too well that made me do so it was to write to you for God knows I have wrote to no one else nor shall I at any other but to the King God bless you most amiable and dearest creature living—aimons toujours mon adorable petite amour je vous adore plusque la vie mesme

I have been reading for about an hour this morning in Prior and find these few lines just now applicable to us

How oft had Henry chang'd his sly disguise,
Unmarked by all but beautious Harriets eyes;
Oft had found means alone to see the Dame,
And at her feet to breathe his am'rous flame,
And oft the pangs of absence to remove
By letters soft interpreters of Love
Till time and Industry the mighty two
That brings our wishes nearer to our view)
Made him perceive that the inclining fair
Received his vows with no reluctant Ear;
That Venus had confirmed her equal reign (pain.
And dealt to Harriets heart a share of Henry's

Such is my amusement to read those sort of things that puts me in mind of our mutual feelings and situations now God bless you till I shall again have an opportunity of sending to you, I shall write to you a Letter a Day as many days as you miss herein of me when I do they shall all come Friday 16 June, God bless shant forget you God knows you have told me so before I hope mine feels easy to you thou joy of my life adieu.

A RAL LOVE SONG.

In the modern C--rt Stile, written almost verbatim from the Original.

GOD bless my dearest little dear—
The wind is not quite fair—
From Portland road I write this here—
God bless your little hair. Doodle doodle doo.
All on the couch last night I lay,
I dreampt what now I sing---
I held you fast, and kiss'd away,
Ay---just like any thing. Doodle doodle doo.
Oh! then methought dear you did lie
Within my arms---but soon
The Dream went off, and there was I
Just by myself alone. Doodle doodle doo.
God bless my dearest little dear,
God bless your little mouth---
To shew my feelings are sincere,
I'll take my bible oath. Doodle doodle doo.

A Lady being asked what she thought of the Duke of C—d's love-letters, replied from Shakespear's Macbeth,

——— "It is a tale
"Told by an ideot, full of sound & fury,
"Signifying nothing."

We hear that instead of his Majesty's statue, the inhabitants of Berkly square propose to erect that of the present Duke of C—d. His Royal Highness is to be represented in the attitude of one who is surprised to find nobody by him but himself.—Another correspondent assures us, that the statue of his Royal Highness is to be in a sitting posture, with Britannia kneeling before him, with one hand taking the Lock of DEAR little Hair from him, and with the other presenting a gilded horn book. Round the sides of the pedestal he is to be exhibited in the different characters of 'Squire Jones, 'Squire Morgan, the Fool, &c. in which last character he is allowed to have excelled all others who ever attempted it.

SUPPLEMENT to the Boston-Gazette, &c. of (No. 815.)

MONDAY, November 19, 1770.

From the NEW-YORK GAZETTE, October 29.

MR. GAINE,

PLEASE to insert the following Lines in your next Gazette, to the Honour of the Revd. Mr. George Whitefield, one of the most extraordinary men that this, or any other Age has produced—a Person of singular Endowments and the most exalted Piety—his Devotion was sublime and ravishing—he liv'd upon Earth like a Citizen of Heaven—his Love and Benevolence to his fellow Creatures, and his incessant Endeavours to make Mankind wise, pious and happy his fervent Zeal for the Glory of God, and his tender Compassion for perishing Sinners, were perhaps unparallel'd—he preach'd a crucify'd Jesus, and the peculiar Doctrines of his Gospel, with an apostolic Ardour, Perseverance and Simplicity—In the Pulpit he was unequal'd—never did any other Orator captivate his Auditors, with such a Torrent of heavenly Eloquence, or move and persuade them with so great Success—never perhaps did any other Man travel so much for the Good of his fellow Creatures, preach to so many and such crowded Audiences, convert such a Great Number of Souls, or so much advance the Interests of Christianity by his personal Labours. Being of a truly Catholic and Evangelical Temper, he had the singular Honour of being esteemed and followed by good People of all Denominations—never was there a Man in America so much belov'd and respected, or whose Death has been more regretted and lamented; he was indeed another flaming Elijah, a Man full of Faith and the Holy Ghost, and I question, whether among all the Ministers of the Gospel who have liv'd since the Apostle Paul, any have so much resembled him in his abundant Labours, seraphic Eloquence, sublime Devotion, noble Boldness, exalted Piety, disinterested Benevolence, singular Zeal for the Glory of God, and the Good of Souls, and other excellent Accomplishments, as this eminent and illustrious Personage—his Death is an irreparable Loss to the Churches of CHRIST—his Memory will be always dear to these Provinces, and his Fame transmitted to the latest Generations. I have sent you the following Verses, not as a Tribute adequate to his Merit, but only to testify my own Gratitude, and excite some able Genius to do more ample Justice to his EXALTED CHARACTER.

WHEN in his country's cause the warrior bleeds,
The grateful muse records his mighty deeds:
Or when the patriot yields his latest breath:
The sorrowing crowds in groans lament his death:
Shall then the gospel preacher, die, unsung:
To whom superior worth and praise belong?
Awake, my muse! and Whitefield's merit paint,
And mourn the exit of this heaven-born saint:
His fame, his virtues, shall my song employ;
The clergy's honour and the churches joy.
Whitefield belov'd of GOD, a shining light,
Blaz'd in his orb, beyond all others bright.
In him the pow'rs of eloquence combin'd.
And love, and zeal, with mingled lustre join'd.
Each christian grace and every moral charm
His mind adorn'd, with these his heart was warm.
So great his zeal for CHRIST, for souls his love,
That urg'd by these, no fear his heart could move,
O'er spacious tracts of land he wing'd his way,
Nor fear'd the fury of the raging sea.
Nor injury, nor scorn, nor heat, nor cold,
Nor health declining, could the saint with-hold;
When the redeemer call'd, he flew to obey,
His native land forsook, nor felt dismay.
With strong desire he sought this distant coast,
To save poor souls in sin and error lost.
To preach glad tidings to the poor in heart,
And ease the breast that felt afflictions smart;
To comfort saints and sinners to alarm,
And save his species from eternal harm:
Altho' disease oppress'd his labouring breath,
And worn out nature threaten'd speedier death;
He still with loudest cries the sinner prest,
To come to CHRIST and seek in him his rest.
Methinks I see him in the pulpit stand,
With graceful gesture and persuasive hand;
Whilst with attention deep the list'ning throng,
Admire the words proceeding from his tongue:
Struck by his arrows hardened sinners start,
Their looks betray the anguish of their heart;
With terror fill'd to GOD they lift their eyes,
And fill his ear with penitential sighs:
Rais'd by his voice the mourning doubting saint,
No more desponds, his heart no more is faint
But with fresh ardour treads the heavenly road,
And flies exulting to his father God.
Just so the flower scorch'd by the summers heat,
Withers and droops it's leaves, with dew unwet:
But when it feels the soft distilling rain,
Straitway it rears its dying head again.
Methinks I hear him cry, 'Sinner awake,
'To GOD return thy evil ways forsake;
'Why wilt thou die when CHRIST thy saviour dear,
'With all the blessings of his grace stands near;
'Awake! awake! before GOD's billows roll,
'O'er thy weak bark and overwhelm thy soul;
'To JESUS fly, the only sure retreat,
'From raging storms of horror, guilt and death.'
Then o'er the wretch he weeps with streaming eyes,
Compassion urges and again he cries;
'For JESUS love, awake, poor soul awake,
'Least endless woe thy lingering steps o'ertake.'
Thus when a city burns with midnight flame,
Whilst heedless mortals on their pillows dream,
The faithful watchmen sound th' alarm and cry;
Up: sleepers up! for if ye sleep ye die.
Thus Xerxes wept, when he all pensive stood;
And saw his troops unfearing pass the flood:
Troops which alas, tho' then in nature's bloom;
Must soon be buried in the silent tomb.
So warn'd the preacher, urging hard with tears,
And Sina's thunder rang in sinners ears:
Till hearts obdurate trembl'd at the word,
From sin awoke, and call'd upon the Lord,
But when to saints he comfort did impart.
Hope smil'd, and joy exulted in the Heart,
When Calvary's bloody scenes his tongue portray'd,
What soul unmov'd th' expiring GOD survey'd,
The love of CHRIST the hearts of men constrain'd,
And from their eyes forth gush'd the tear unfeign'd.
When hell he painted, horror seiz'd the bad,
When heav'n display'd, the good man's heart was glad
Immortal souls transported by his word,
With glowing ardour long to meet the lord:
Impatient wish'd to drop their sinful clay,
And soar to regions of eternal Day.
Never such foretastes sure of heaven were felt,
As (when he preach'd) God unto sinners dealt,
He spoke of heav'n like one from thence come down,
And in the pulpit like a seraph shown,
All other preachers he did far exceed,
As the fair flow'r excells the homely weed.
Not Tully's self who plead his country's cause,
Nor fam'd Demosthenes, with such applause,
Addrest their hearers, as this preacher dear:
Nor could their eloquence with his compare.
To hear him talk, was like a heavenly feast,
Where each believer was a royal Guest;
And after his, all other sermons were
As after royal banquets, homely fare; [crowd,
When Whitefield preach'd, to church the gathering
With earnest steps and expectations flow'd;
When he arose in attitude to speak,
The soul was all attention, all awake,
With eager draughts she drank his doctrine in,
As thirsty lands receive the falling rain.
But Whitefield's dead, he bad the world adieu,
And to his saviour's arms impatient flew;
Cold is that tongue which warm'd the word before,
And those persuasive hands shall move no more;
No more his lips shall saving truth dispence,
And ravish crowds, with heavenly eloquence;
No more o'er guilty minds, he'll shake the rod,
Or urge the terrors of an angry GOD,
What tho' no spouse and children near and dear,
Wept round thy breathless corps and fun'ral bier;
Thousands of souls converted by thy word,
With comfort fill'd or strengthen'd in the lord;
For thee shall drop the tributary tear,
And in their breasts thy lov'd idea bear;
Three kingdoms shall the loss of thee deplore,
And grieve, dear man! that thou art now no more;
No single Province, but a continent,
Which saw thy labours, shall thy death lament,
The loss of such abilities and zeal,
Is more than armies to the public weal;
No single death in Britain's spacious realm,
With equal grief could Zion overwhelm.

SERMON

Occasioned by the EXPULSION of

Six young Gentlemen

FROM THE

University of Oxford,

FOR

Praying, Reading, and Expounding the Scriptures, &c.

By the SHAVER.

This Piece was in such prodigious Demand in London, that it went through Eleven Editions in about Eight Months:—And perhaps is the best Piece for all Denominations of Christians to read at this Time, of any Thing of the Kind extant in the World.

(Price half Pistareen.)

THE Publishers of the last Year's North-American ALMANACK and Massachusetts REGISTER, were aware that sundry Corrections were necessary in an Essay of that Kind, and therefore craved the Candor of the IMPARTIAL PUBLIC—who are now requested to send to EDES & GILL, as soon as convenient, any Alteration that may have occurred in the Course of the Year past, whether by Death, Promotion or Addition of Officers of the Civil or Ecclesiastical Lists, or in any of the other Lists therein contained, that the Register for the Year ensuing may be as correct as possible.

John Noble,

TAKES this Method to acquaint the Public, That he has left the Stage, which Weekly goes from hence to Portsmouth, and now Rides Post between Boston and Portsmouth; and may be spoke with at his Lodgings at Mr. Thomas Hubbart's the Sign of Admiral Vernon in King-Stret, from the usual Time of his coming in on Saturday Evenings 'till early on Tuesday Morning.

☞ THIS is earnestly to desire

ALL Customers of the Boston-Gazette, &c. who receive them by the Southern or Eastern Posts, to pay their respective Balances to the First of November Instant.——And as a new Post commenc'd Riding to the Eastward at said Time, and insists on our being accountable to him for every Paper he carries, 'tis therefore expected of those who are desirous of continuing the same, that they not only clear off their old Arrearages, but send the advance Pay for the future, so long as they shall incline to take the same. by the Return of the Post; in which Case they may depend on being regularly supplied therewith; otherwise (excepting some few, whose former punctual Pay will entitle them to future Credit) must not expect to receive any more Papers from their humble Servants, THE PRINTERS.

Boston, Nov. 19, 1770.

N. B. Those Persons who discontinued the Gazette in the Year 1764, on Account of the Prevalence of the Small-Pox, are reminded in a particular Manner to settle their Accounts forthwith, to prevent Trouble.
